GRANDMOTHERS
CRAFT & SOCIAL CLUB

We meet the second Monday of the month at Oakmont Recreation Center, 12 noon, for business, socializing and refreshments. The fourth Monday of the month at 1:00pm to 3:00pm is our New Addition to the club, starting in 1996, "Grandmothers' Bunco Party."

There are also members who work on crafts, so special workshops are scheduled before the Fun Fair in the spring and in the fall for the Arts & Crafts Festival, and at those times our craft items are sold.

All our membership enjoy a variety of social functions both in our club room and on occasion an outside activity. A Christmas party including a lunch are provided by the club during the Holiday season. We have great get-together times and are a friendly group, always looking for new members to share our good times. You need not be a grandmother only a Recreation Center member.

Sun City kicks off fun fairs

By ANGELA MULL

Those overcome by the urge to snag some sweets will find a plentiful supply at Saturday's Oakmont Fun Fair.

Grandmothers & Friends will sell homemade goodies ranging from muffins to pies to cakes at what will be the first of six fun fairs at Sun City's recreation centers.

The Oakmont Fun Fair will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Oakmont Recreation Center, 10725 Oakmont Drive at 107th Avenue. Admission is free.

Other fun fairs will follow, one each Saturday through March 29, in the following order: at Sundial, Bell Lakeview, Marinette and Fairway recreation centers.

Grandmothers & Friends President June Herrmann said the fun fairs provide a nice atmosphere for people.

"They're happy to mingle with one another and see people they haven't seen in awhile," she said.

Members of Herrmann's club will sell handmade items such as stuffed Easter bunnies and will talk to anyone interested in Grandmothers & Friends.

"People have heard that we're a very friendly group of women because we care about one another," she said. "That tends to be part of our theme. What we do best is care."

Grandmothers & Friends is just one of the clubs featured at the fun fair at Oakmont Recreation Center. Other groups include the gourmet club, ceramics and needle arts and crafts. The gourmet club will provide hot dogs and soda.

Grand grannies

Members of Oakmont's Grandmothers and Friends Club gathered Feb. 12 to donate almost 100 stuffed animals and 36 handmade hearts to long-term care patients at Westview Healthcare Center. The hearts were made by Marilyn Ciocco and stuffed by members of the club at Monday morning workshops. Each animal and heart had a small poem attached, called, "The Caring Heart." Grandmothers and Friends meet each Monday to make items for care centers and shelters. According to June Herman, past president, "Grandmothers and Friends is a club that cares." From left, June Herman, Rosalyn Strimling, of Westview; Marilyn Ciocco, club member; Jenny Fullerton, activities director of Westview stand amid the plethora of donated animals and hearts.

Everyone loves America. Well not everyone.

Bin Laden hates America when he sent the suicide bombers to kill our people and destroy our valuable property.

How could a human being cause so much disaster to another human being?

No one can understand Bin Ladens bombing on 9-11 and killing many, many innocent people and he must be punished along with his followers.

Bin Laden is receiving a small amount of punishment trying to find ways to move around to elude being captured, but it's not enough.

Rage, tears and fright was forthcoming from relatives, neighbors and friends.

Why did this happen to innocent people and the destruction of beautiful buildings.

People came together to help cope with this terrible tragedy.

We must have faith and trust and pray that peace and harmony will come upon this earth.

Dear Grandmothers & Friends:

You were so kind to remember New Life Shelter this holiday season with all of the wonderful Christmas presents for the ladies and children. Also, thank you for the turkey and other food items, toiletries, and used clothing. When many of our clients leave their abusive situations, they come to us with nothing more than the clothes on their backs. We appreciate so much our friends in the community who take time out of a busy schedule to be generous with those less fortunate.

As you know, New Life Shelter is serving more and more women and children who are victims of domestic abuse. There are 30 beds available, and we average 26 per night. To help our clients heal their physical and psychological wounds, we supply medical care and counseling. To help them get on their feet, we provide case management services for housing and other needs. For their obvious loneliness and sadness this Christmas season, we are able to supply our clients with attention, gifts, and love.

Your thoughtfulness will help make the holidays a bit brighter here at New Life. Again, thank you for your continued support. Hope you have a merry Christmas and a blessed New Year.

Sincerely,

May is the month I designate to send "thank you" notes to groups who are donating items to our Red Cross Production Group, and your group is certainly high on the list.

We sent many of the caps you made to Faith House in Prescott and they were delighted with them.

Please say "thank you" to the members who are donating the items. Everything is done well. We appreciate you.

Dear June and members of the club:

What a wonderful surprise to receive your check fro $200 for art supplies for our children's counseling program! Thank you so much.

I told our Children's Art Therapist about your donation, and she just beamed. A couple of months ago I had asked her to keep her supplies list to a minimum because we didn't have specific funds to use for that purpose. So Irene is very happy to be able to purchase some of the items she has put off.

To illustrate the neediness of our little ones here, Irene was using the theme of "draw a family" so the children in her group could discuss what each child's feelings were about being part of a family. One little boy drew four figures, his mother, his brother, himself and a dragon-looking character. He was asked to describe his picture and he left out the dragon, so Irene said, "What about the dragon?" Little Jose said, "That's my dad - his mouth is always yelling at us and scaring us. Sometimes his hands hit us."

Irene also uses sand and water, and small toys in these mediums to depict the children's everyday lives. When violence is brought up, she encourages the children to express their feelings in a safe environment.

What you do to help us at the shelter is very important. It allows us to continue to serve these very needy women and children. You are appreciated!

Dear Grandmothers & Friends:

You were so kind to remember New Life Shelter with all of the wonderful art supplies and donations for the ladies and their children. Also, we would like to acknowledge the donation that the Kauslick family made, in memory of their mother, wife and friend, Rita Kauslick. Last fiscal year nearly 450 women and children called New Life Shelter their temporary home, and your donation will be used in the care of these clients.

Recently a 23 year-old woman with four children came to the shelter after having been assaulted again by her husband. "Mary" left after this incident because she feared for her life, and further abuse of her children. She was depressed and felt unable to care for her little ones. While with our counselors, this woman described a life of feeling unloved and abused, beginning with her life as a child. Our counselors worked with Mary to identify her strengths. She wanted to finish her GED and find work, and our staff helped her begin her process. She was put in touch with her parenting classes and was encouraged in new and better ways to handle her young children. Mary left the shelter to move into transitional housing. She and her family will live there for about a year, where she will enter job training and learn to support herself and her children. Mary was grateful that New Life Shelter was here when she needed to leave her home.

Your donations make our work possible. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Dear Members:

You have done it again! Your "ton" of donations to the shelter the other day is so appreciated. (The woman who picked up the things wrote in our communication log that it was a "ton" of donations!) As you know, we rely on community donations of money as well as clothing and other goods to supply our clients with what they need.

We have remained full, with an average of 26 - 27 clients every day for the last two months. I want to tell you a story about a little boy who lives here now. "Tommy" told his school counselor that he was staying at the "safe place." She didn't understand him, and thought he had said the name of an apartment complex, so she said, "What?" And he said, "the safe place." She then said, "Oh, you mean the shelter." He said yes, and went on to tell her how nobody was mean to him there, and his daddy wasn't there so his mommy wouldn't be hurt either. He also said daddy had hurt him and chased him to hit him, and he was happy to be away from home.

This story brought tears to our eyes. This is the whole reason we continue this work. Thank you for your help.

Grandmothers & Friends

Dear Grandmothers & Friends:

We once again are overwhelmed with all of the donations given to our shelter yesterday. We found ourselves all singing "It's Beginning to Look A Lot Like Christmas" as we unloaded the trucks.

Ramona has asked that I extend her thanks for all the nice plus sizes donated. Many times we've had to go out and purchase items because our linen closet didn't include special sizes. All of us were thrilled to find the new children's shoes and the dollhouses! How wonderful you all are to us! This time of year, most of the children are arriving in sandals and with the weather turning cold, warmer shoes are really needed.

At our 1996-97 fiscal year end, we had served nearly 500 women and child victims of domestic violence, providing basic shelter, food, clothing, links to other social services, and counseling. Our women come to us broken, discouraged, and at the end of their dreams. Like their children, they need safety, reassurance, and kindness. Our goal is to help each woman develop self-esteem, word towards self-sufficiency, and develop better parenting skills.

About two-thirds of our clients are children, and the effects of family violence on them are very great. Our children's counselor spends a lot of time nurturing, paying attention to the children who have been neglected or abused themselves. The children also attend individual and group counseling sessions to help them begin to heal, and structured activities that allow them to be children again.

Last year, the vast majority of our clients (92 percent) went from New Life Shelter to transitional housing, to live with relatives or friends, to independent living, or to job training. Approximately eight percent of our women clients returned to their former lives of violence and chaos and fear. We currently have 11 women and 13 children in residence. Their needs are great and we appreciate your support. Again, thank you.

Sincerely,

Gift drive benefits shelter

By TINA SCHADE

Towers of toys. Boxes of books. Piles of puzzles. All of these items will find their way under the Christmas trees of abused children this year.

On Monday, members of Grandmothers and Friends collected hundreds of toys and clothes, which were picked up in two different trucks supplied by New Life Shelter, a safe house for battered women and children in Litchfield Park.

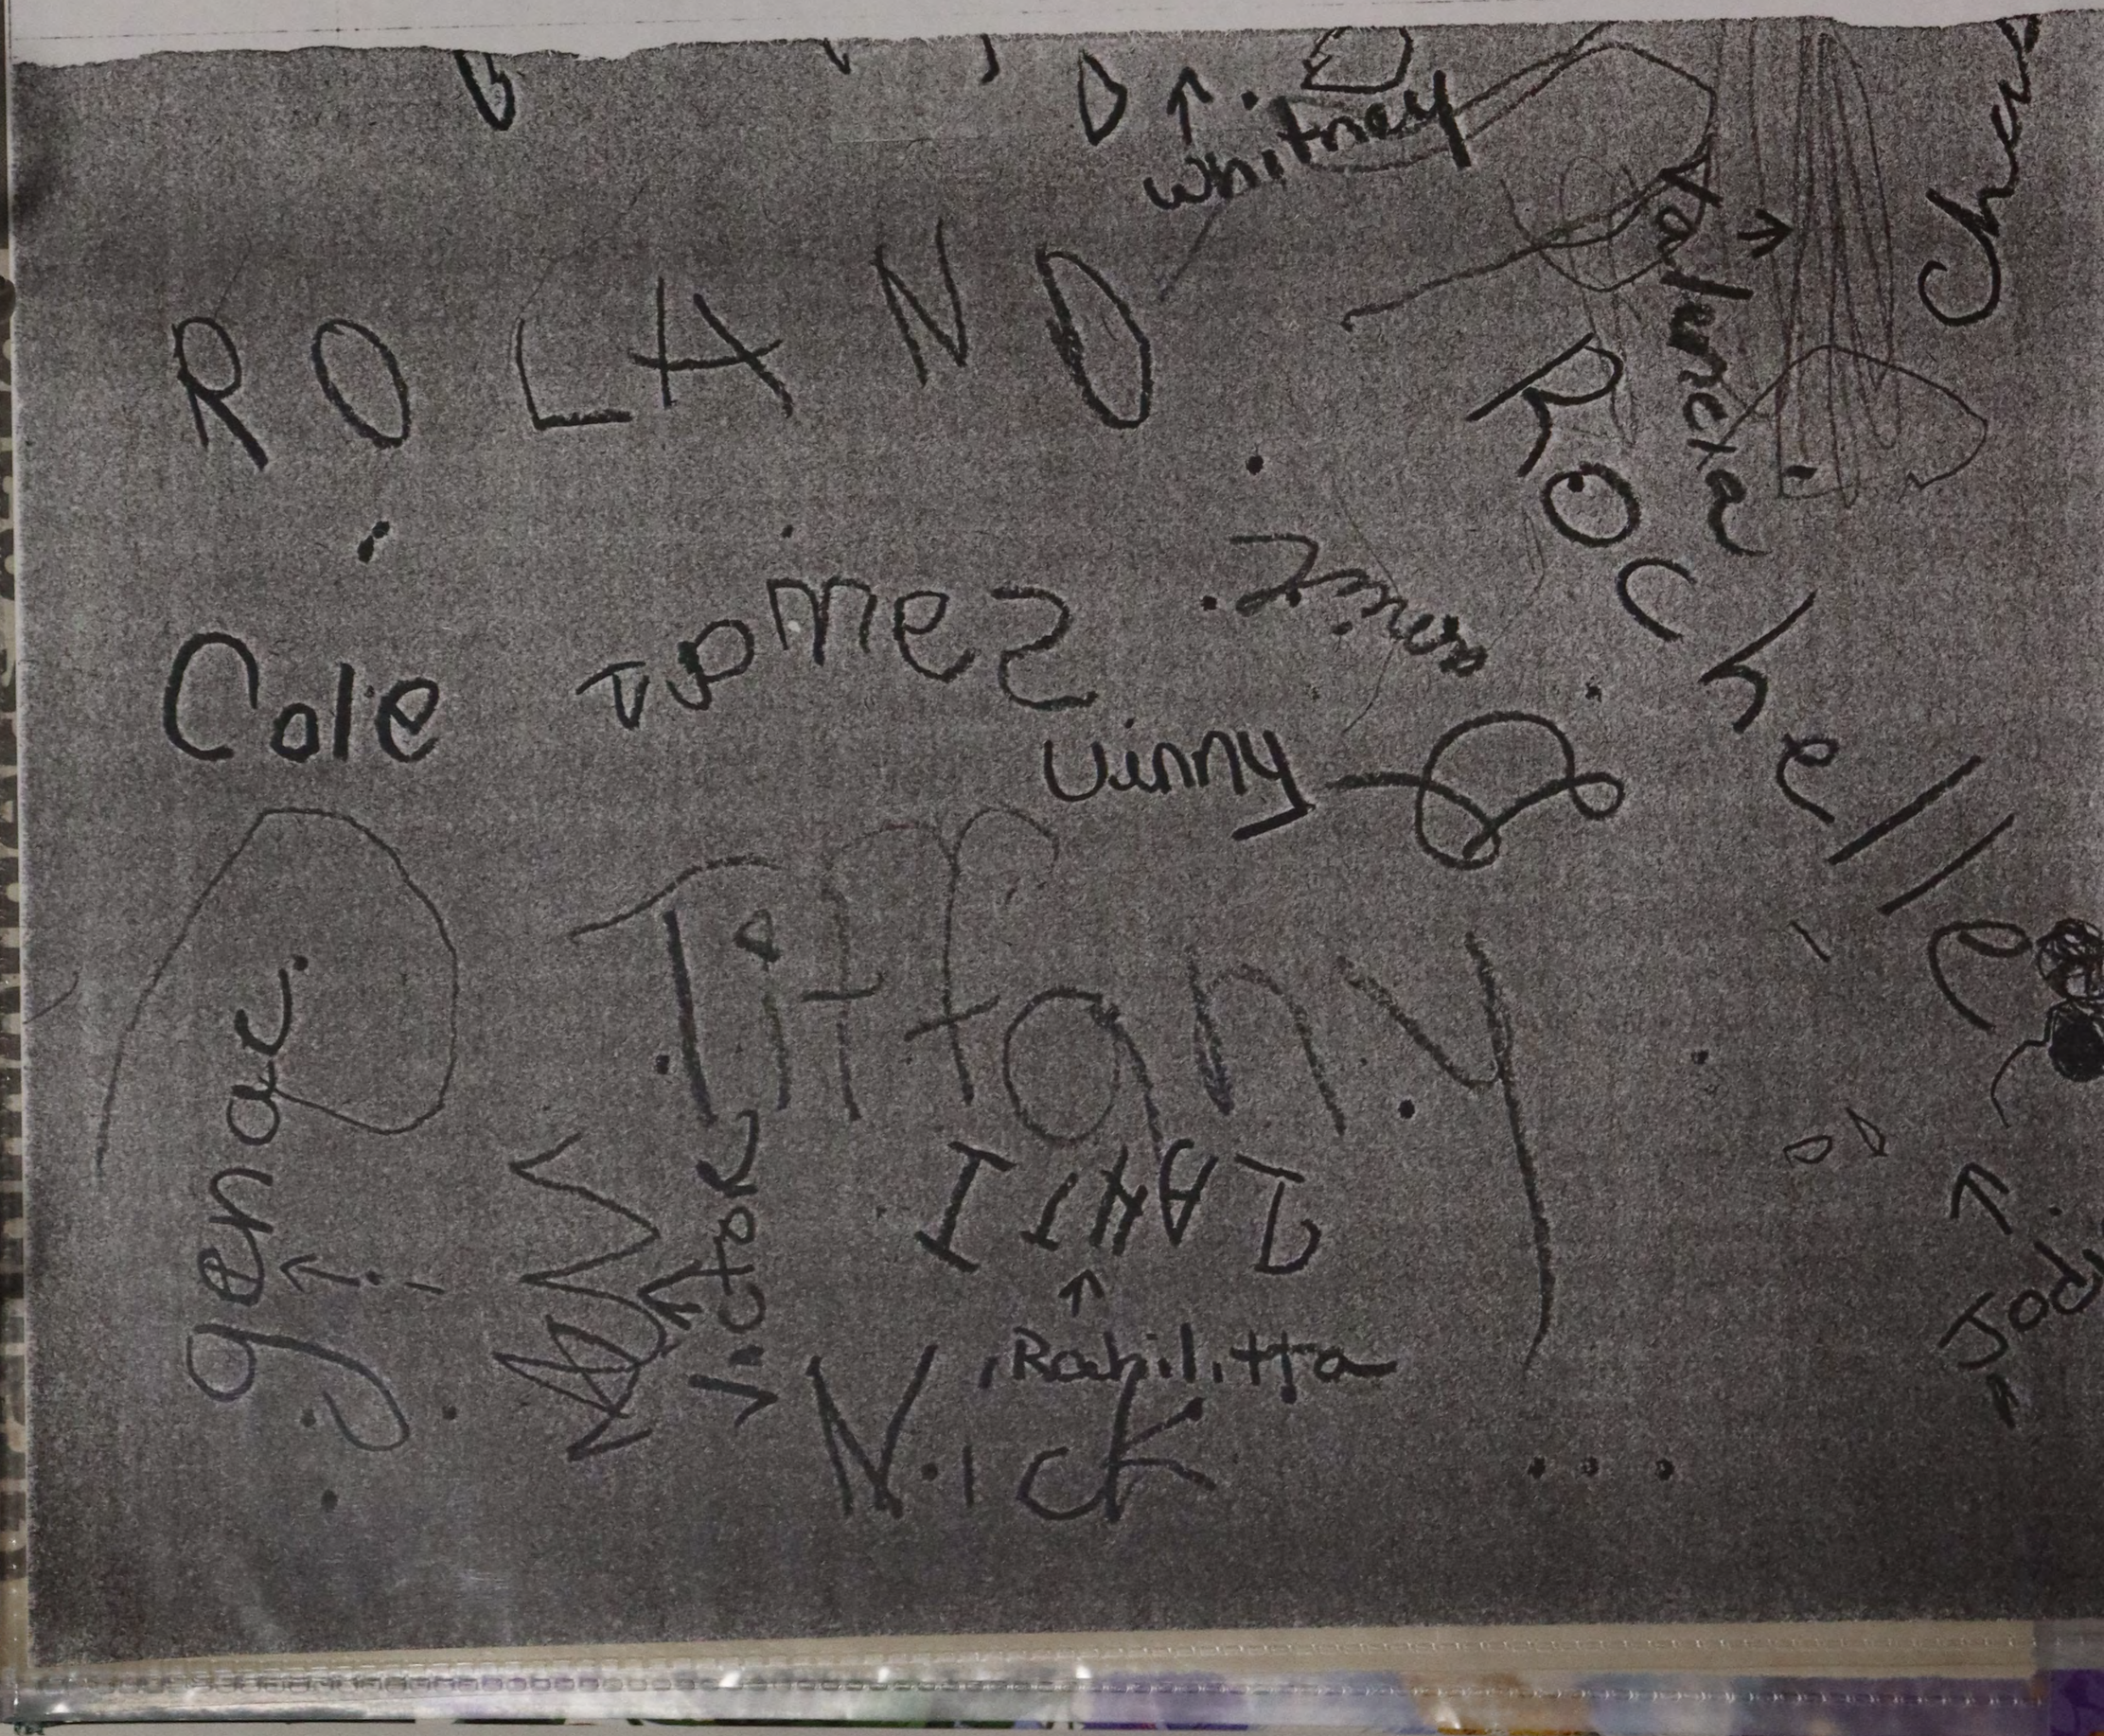

"I don't think people know how many abused women and children there are," said Phyllis Roach, the club's vice president.

In September, officers began requesting items from the 120 or so members in hopes of filling stockings for children who probably wouldn't have much to celebrate.

This year's drive has been the club's most successful yet.

Grandmothers care about everyone

A lot of clubs offer Sun Citians the chance to try their hand at arts and crafts.

Others provide opportunities for philanthropics

But Grandmothers and Friends offers both.

Established around 1968 in Sun City, members of the club work on crafts which are sold at the Fun Fair in the spring and the Arts and Crafts Festival in the fall.

But what makes the club unique is its ability to combine the talents of its members with their dedication to helping the community.

One of the nice things about the club is even if you're "craft challenged," Grandmothers and Friends can use your help.

"About half of the women do crafts. There's a kitchen group that makes coffee and cuts cakes and another lady sends out cards and that's all she does is send cards out to people," said Phyllis Roach, the club's vice president.

Members also help coordinate luncheons and garage sales, but it's the clubs commitment to bettering the lives of others which members find most fulfilling.

"I think we're a group of women that truly care. Whether it's the New Life Shelter, whether it's one of the nursing homes or whether it's about one of our own members, we truly care," said June Hermann, club president.

Some of the local beneficiaries of Grandmothers and Friends include Hearthstone of Sun City and the Good Shepherd Care Center.

"We make aprons and afghans for people in elderly homes. We've made bandanas for those with cancer and in the last two years, we've gotten involved with battered women," Roach said.

The New Life Shelter in Litchfield Park, one of the places which receives donations from the club, provides a haven for battered women and children.

The club has made it possible for the shelter to continue its art therapy program, which helps children express emotions through creative projects.

"We had asked for paper, paint supplies, brushes and color crayons. We supplied a list and they really went after those items. I've been so impressed that those women in that club would feel so drawn to help us," said Renea Gentry, executive director of the shelter.

The club also saves Campbell's soup labels for the Southwest Indian School. The labels help the school purchase equipment such as televisions, videocassette recorders and vehicles.

Roach said another unique aspect of the club is the feeling one gets from belonging.

"It's a feeling of working together and caring about each other that I haven't seen in any other club and I've been involved in a lot of clubs," Roach said "I worked in the club office for five years. It's unique in its feeling and I think that's one of the reasons we've accumulated so many people."

The club currently has about 70 to 80 active members.

For information on Grandmothers and Friends, call Phyllis Roach at 972-2609 or June Hermann at 972-4803.

GRANDMOTHER'S & FRIENDS

A CARING CLUB

Grand grannies

Members of Oakmont's Grandmothers and Friends Club gathered Feb. 12 to donate almost 100 stuffed animals and 36 handmade hearts to long-term care patients at Westview Healthcare Center. The hearts were made by Marilyn Ciocco and stuffed by members of the club at Monday morning workshops. Each animal and heart had a small poem attached, called, "The Caring Heart." Grandmothers and Friends meet each Monday to make items for care centers and shelters. According to June Herman, past president, "Grandmothers and Friends is a club that cares." From left, June Herman, Rosalyn Strimling, of Westview; Marilyn Ciocco, club member; Jenny Fullerton, activities director of Westview stand amid the plethora of donated animals and hearts.

THE CARING HEART

This little Heart isn't magic
Nor does it make dreams come true
But it wishes for your well being
and prayers for contentment too

If you ever feel sad or lonely
Just touch this Heart and know
Another's thoughts are with you wherever you may go

When someone sees this little Heart
May they know that you are loved
A special way by a special friend
As sincerely as heaven above

But it wishes for your well being
And prayers for contentment too
